BANDIT ASSAULTS GIRL, KILLS BOB SQUIRES, WOUNDS THREE MEN

Bandit Cornered In Canyon, Is Rushed by 150 Men and Killed

FIEND FOLLOWED INTO HILLS DIED WITH BULLET IN HEAD

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL WAS ATTACKED BY BRUTE

Frighful Rape of Last Night Brought On Bloody Fight at Tomato Springs —Brave Officer Riddled

In the bloodiest battle of the county's history, Under-Sheriff Robert Squires was killed this morning by an unknown fiend. Deputy Sheriff J. F. Stacy was shot through the shoulder and leg. Al. Prater was shot through the temple, and may die. Will Culver was shot through the knee. The day's events ended with the killing of the fiend in a rush joined in by 100 men.

The bullets came from an unknown man who last night raped Myrtle Huff, aged 17, at William Cook's place on the San Joaquin ranch, eight miles east of Santa Ana. The fiend tied Jessie Huff, sister of the injured girl, to a post, and forced his victim to the rear of the barn.

The man took to the hills. This morning he boasted of his crime and was followed in to the foothills. There he suddenly opened fire on Under-Sheriff Squires and Stacy. Squires is dead.

Story of Assault
Yesterday afternoon the man came across the fields from the direction of the Trabuco road, and arriving at the backyard of William A. Cook's home, asked for work. Cook told him that work was slack. The man then walked to Myford, where he was until night.

About 7 o'clock Cook's family was in the house addressing postal cards. The fiend evidently walked around the house peering into the windows. His tracks were found this morning.

Soon the dog began to bark furiously. The girls, Myrtle, aged 17, and Jessie, aged 15, went to the back of the barn to tie the dog up, being afraid coyotes were about and he might be harmed.

Returning, they were suddenly confronted by a man.

"Stop," he said. "If either of you scream, I'll kill you both. Which of you is the oldest?"

"I am," replied Myrtle bravely.

Quickly, the man took a rope from his belt, and tied Jessie to the fence of the pig pen. He thought he had her hands tied tightly. Jessie made no effort to struggle. All the time the man flourished a revolver. As he seized Myrtle by one arm he fired a shot into the ground at Jessie's feet.

"Now you see I mean business," he snarled.

"Put out that lantern," he commanded.

Myrtle did so, raising the lantern so that she saw the brute's face, recognizing him as the visitor of the afternoon.

He dragged Myrtle to a bean straw stack, just around the corner from where Jessie had been tied.

As soon as the man was out of sight, Jessie untied herself and sped to the house, where she informed Cook of what had happened.

Cook ran toward the haystack, and was fired at point blank twice by the man with the revolver. Cook turned and went back to the house. Jessie begged him not to go out again, saying the man would certainly kill Myrtle, as he told Cook he would do.

Cook had no arms at the house. He ran to the men's quarters, and aroused them, among them being Al. Prater, who was later shot through the head.

By this time the man had accomplished his dreadful purpose, and had turned down the road leading toward the foothills. Cook was on horseback, and rode toward his brother's house off toward Tomato Springs. He probably passed the fiend in the darkness, for the man's abandoned pack, containing a quilt, was found near the road this morning.

Back for Breakfast
Men hunted all night, but could get no trace of the scoundrel. This morning about daybreak he went to Ed. Chambers' ranchhouse, and sat there and ate a lunch that he had with him.

"I shot a man at Myford last night," he boasted, "and they will be after me pretty quick. I'll kill a bunch of them before they ever get me. Let them come on. Then I'll go back to that girl's house and kill them all."

The man went back into the foothills. By this time Squires, Stacy, Will Cheney and others were hunting for the man.

Suddenly his curses rang out over

A BRAVE, HONEST MAN DEAD
Robert Squires, a man big of heart, was killed while doing his duty this morning.

For years he conducted the Pioneer Truck Company business here. He relinquished that business to his sons, Isaac and Elwell, a year ago to take the appointment of constable. From that office he stepped to under-sheriff under Sheriff C. E. Ruddock.

In many tight places he has demonstrated his lion heart. He would do his duty, whatever it was. He had a big heart. Tears would come to his eyes quick when he saw a child abused.

Squires was high in the Odd Fellows.

He leaves a widow, three sons and two daughters.

SQUIRES' DEATH TOLD BY STACY

Brave Officer Fell Before Fire of Bandit; Stacy Wounded

"Poor Bob Is Dead!"
Laying on a bed of pain, a bullet in his shoulder and another in his leg, "Tex" Stacy, a deputy sheriff, told the story of the first part of the bloody battle that raged for half a day in the mountains east of Santa Ana today.

Stacy was brought to town in a machine after walking four miles through the hills bleeding from a terrible wound in his right shoulder, and another in his left leg. He is confined to his home, Second and Garnsey streets, weak from the loss of blood.

"Squires and I were in the lead of the posse," said Stacy this afternoon. "I had my bloodhound and we put him on the trail, which he found almost at once. Down canyons and over hills we pursued the fiend. We finally spotted him on top of a hill. Bob was quite a distance from me and evidently came upon the man almost face to face, for both opened fire at once. Squires with his revolver and the bandit with a Winchester.

"The first few shots must have found their mark, for I saw Bob pitch forward, and then lay still. I did not know he was dead as I was pumping lead toward our quarry as fast as I could handle my Colt's army special. I was about 400 yards from him. He finally hit me in the right shoulder and I was unable to handle my gun with the right hand, so I shifted to the left and kept shooting until a bullet sent the weapon spinning, and I received a flesh wound in the left hand.

"The fellow taunted me by inviting me to come up to the top and take him. A bullet went through the rim of my hat and another passed through the lower part of my vest, but neither did any damage.

"We must have kept up the fusillade for over an hour and a half, and when both my hands were useless I turned and walked back to my machine. The battle occurred near the home of William Cheney in the hills and near the scene of the assault."

Stacy's wounds were dressed but the bullet is still in his shoulder. The ball entered on the right side and travelled down his shoulder blade, and is lodged in a fleshy part of the shoulder. A second bullet is in his left leg. He will recover.

Stacy is fifty years old and before coming to California fought cattle thieves in Texas. This is the first encounter of the kind he has taken part in this state, and he says as soon as he is able to be on his feet he will be ready for the next one. A Register reporter brought him the first news of the shooting of the bandit, which was received with deep satisfaction.

CHICAGO WOMEN TO OPEN EGG STORES; TO LOWER PRICES
CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—The success which the housewives in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh have met in their establishment of butter and egg stores has inspired the women of Chicago to follow their example. The result will be that next Friday, in a hundred different corner stores throughout the city, fresh country eggs will be offered for sale at 24 cents a dozen. The sales will be managed by members of the Chicago Clean-Food company, which today arranged for the purchase of ten carloads of fresh eggs and which called up volunteer members to conduct the sales.

WELLS FARGO ROBBERY WAS FAKE

Hamby, Messenger, Confesses He Planned and Carried Out Scheme; Cash Found

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 16.—Marvin W. Hamby, the 22-year-old express messenger whose car on the Sunset Western train of the Santa Fe Railroad was robbed of $20,145 in gold near here last Monday night, broke down yesterday and confessed that he had robbed the safe, with the aid of his 16-year-old brother, Melvin. The money, which had been hidden by the boys in a brickyard at Kern Junction, was recovered, with the exception of $300, which was found in Melvin's room. Both brothers are in jail.

After having made his confession, Hamby led officers to the place where the money had been buried and where the brother, Melvin, was taken into custody.

Injuries Are Shammed
The robbery occurred last Monday night. After mulling a disjointed story of an attack by two bandits, two had laid him unconscious with a blow on the head, the young messenger was taken to a hospital at Taft, where he shammed injury so successfully that not until yesterday was he seriously suspected. Then he was brought back here and today was subjected to a "third degree" sweating for five hours by railroad and express detectives.

Breaking down finally, Hamby threw his hands over his head and weeping, sobbed out:

"Oh, I did it myself."

Then he told where the money was buried, how he had conceived the plan of robbery and how he had carried it out.

Men in Balloon Dropped in Sea—Trip of Peril

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16.—Carrying three passengers, the big captive balloon "Peoria" was torn from its moorings by a high wind yesterday afternoon at Venice and rising to an altitude of 9000 feet, was carried for ten miles over land and sea. The gas bag finally burst and the balloon sank into the ocean. The occupants were rescued.

The pilot, Neil Hampton, and his two passengers, J. T. Waggoner and Charles Jordan, eight years old, both of Ocean Park, were taken from the basket by tugs rushed to their aid from Long Beach and San Pedro. Neil was unconscious and his two passengers in almost as bad a condition.

KEARNEY AND LAWRENCE ARE LOST

Hope Abandoned; Fishermen Find Additional Wreckage of Fated Hydro-aeroplane

REMNANTS OF AIRCRAFT ARE FOUND OFF REDONDO

Unremitting Search Was Made for Men Who Had Started on Hazardous Trip

REDONDO BEACH, Dec. 16. It has been reported that fishermen have found other portions of the wreckage of the Kearney hydro-aeroplane. The search has been continued.

Helmsman H. Miller of the steamer John H. Higgins, arriving from the north today, reports that he sighted an object which he believes to be Kearney's wrecked hydro-aeroplane off Point Dume at 7:15 this morning.

TRAGEDY OF THE AIR SEEMS TO BE ASSURED

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16.—Reports from Redondo, Santa Monica and other coast cities state that no traces have been found of the missing aviators, Howard Kearney and his companion, Chester Lawrence, of the Los Angeles Examiner, who have not been seen since early Saturday afternoon soon after the start of an attempt to make an over-sea flight from Newport Beach to San Francisco.

A broken pontoon found yesterday pitching in the waves five miles off Redondo Beach has been identified by the outlier of Kearney's hydro-aeroplane as being part of the machine in which the aviator was attempting his hazardous trip.

That bit of wreckage is the only message that had been received and the only reward for the army of searchers that have patrolled shore, sea, air and mountains since Saturday evening.

All of the suppositions, together with known facts, tend to the conclusion that the two air travelers were forced to descend somewhere near the jutting of land which marks the northernmost point of Crescent Bay.

Additional launch parties are still scouring the coast and three auto parties are reported to have left Los Angeles this morning. Mrs. Lawrence, wife of the newspaper man, while worried was still hopeful this morning for the safety of her husband and Kearney. Charles Day, engineer-aviator, interested with Kearney, also believes the men are safe, as he thinks the pontoons would carry the engine in case of forced descent.

Vague Reports from Ventura

VENTURA, Dec. 16.—Waterfront rumors say the wreckage of Kearney's aeroplane has been found floating forty miles off shore. Vague and unverified rumors are reported to have originated from picked-up wireless messages.

LOS ANGELES LEADS BUILDING LIST

First in November Permits in List of 86 Principal Cities of United States

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Once more Los Angeles is first, in a list of eighty-six principal cities of the United States, in the number of building permits taken out during November. Maintaining its usual lead, the Southern California metropolis is fourth in the estimated cost of the building operations for which the permits were issued.

Such is the gist of the reports tabulated by Construction News for the November activities and made public recently. It shows that Southern California has not lost its stride and that the northwest cities have fallen behind in the matter of new construction. Seattle shows a loss of 10 per cent and Portland shows a falling off of 68 per cent.

In Los Angeles, during the month, permits were issued for 1476 buildings, with a total estimated cost of $2,597,723, as against a total of 1104 buildings, costing $1,797,233, for the month of November, 1911, a gain of 45 per cent.

Country Gains 7 Per Cent
Construction all over the country, as indicated in the reports from the eighty-six cities, gained 7 per cent. For the month just ended, the total number of permits taken out was 18,584, involving a total estimated cost of $64,033,323, as against a total of 17,161 permits for November, 1911, involving a total cost of $59,603,753.

WANTS TO BE PAID FOR WORK AT POLLS

Newport News: Robert Sackett, president of the West Coast Gas Company was here the first of the week from the home office at Bellflower and was authority for the statement that Harry Edenhorough, formerly of this city, had called at his office and demanded $250 for working against the gas bonds at the election recently held in this city. Edenhorough claimed, according to Sackett, that he had considerable influence in defeating the bonds.

Some money that Scarpa had on deposit at the International Savings Bank was also attached. Since the attachment papers were served another Italian, D. Moretti, has laid claim to the second gondola brought here by Scarpa. The boat had been sunk in the bay and was raised and stored by the Jackson-Norton Company, and Moretti must pay $8 charges on the gondola before he can get possession of it.

SUGAR MADE FROM WOOD BY SCIENTISTS

"Sacchulose" Term for New and Valuable Product of Chemical Process

LONDON, Dec. 16.—By a new chemical process the manufacture of sugar from wood and sawdust has become an accomplished fact. Large quantities of the commodity have actually been produced. "Sacchulose" is the term applied to the new product.

The results obtained are what are called "classed process," in which sawdust is subjected in closed retorts to digestion with a sulphurous acid solution, and under the pressure of about 90 to 100 pounds to the square inch effective transmutation takes place. Of the resulting product 25 per cent is sugar.

SUFFRAGE PLANNED FOR WASHINGTON, D.C.

Iowa Man Includes Initiative, Referendum and Recall in Proposed Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Self-government for the National capital, embracing not only the right of suffrage but the initiative, referendum and recall, is the proposition Congressman Prouty of Iowa, Progressive Republican, will put up to the new Democratic Congress.

Mr. Prouty intends to introduce a bill, the details of which are now being worked out, providing radical changes in the government of the District of Columbia. Under the provisions of this bill, if it should become a law, the city will elect four commissioners and a mayor and will also have the power of initiating legislation and of recalling officials by petition of voters.

The district voter would also have power of passing on a city ordinance before it is made effective. In brief, the Prouty bill provides a system of government similar to the Des Moines plan, and the bill will provide adequate machinery for conducting primary and general elections and for converting Washington into a self-governed city.

The Japanese Bath.
One of the most detailed accounts of the Japanese bath in good native hotels which have not come under foreign influence is given by Mr. Stanford Ramsome in "Japan in Transition." It is commonly a rectangular structure of wood, let in so that the top is about flush with the floor, filled with cold water through a bamboo tube and heated by a fire underneath or by the side. It starts us to read that the water is rarely changed more than once or twice a day, so that from a score to a hundred of persons may use the same. But Mr. Ramsome explains why this is not the dirty arrangement it seems. "It would be if the Japanese treated the bath as we do—that is to say, as a place to wash in—but he does not. He gets into his bath for the purpose of raising the temperature of his body after he has been thoroughly washed all over."—London Chronicle.

First Lightning Rod.

Nearly everybody believes that Benjamin Franklin was the inventor and constructor of the first lightning rod. In this particular they are mistaken, as the first lightning catcher was invented by a poor monk of Bohemia, who put up the first lightning rod on the palace of the curator of Preditz, Moravia, June 15, 1754. The apparatus was composed of a pole surmounted by an iron rod, supporting twelve curved branches and terminating in as many metallic boxes filled with iron ore. The entire system of wires was united to the earth by a large chain. The enemies of the inventor, jealous of his success, excited the peasants of the locality against him and under the pretext that his lightning rod was the cause of the excessive dry weather had the rod taken down and the inventor imprisoned.—Argonaut.

Carlyle's Influence.

Thomas Carlyle, "the sage of Chelsea," died without winning much personal popularity, a fact, however, which is forgotten in admiration of his genius. Carlyle exerted a greater influence on British literature during the middle of the nineteenth century and on the religious and political beliefs of his time than possibly any other British writer. He never wrote a line that he did not believe, and in regard to style he certainly had no superior. From the position of schoolmaster in an obscure village this great Scotsman rose to be a leader in the world of letters.—London Graphic.

A Mind Reader.

One night at a court ball in the Tuileries Napoleon III. was so attentive to a beautiful young woman as to excite comment among the other women. At last in response to a direct tribute to her beauty she said: "Ah, but your majesty compliments me too much." "How remarkable," he replied, with a twinkle in his eye, "that you should say just what every other woman here is thinking!"

A Stetson Story.

The late John Stetson, famous in his day as a theatrical manager, was having a yacht built, and a friend, meeting him on the street, asked him what he was going to name the boat. "I haven't decided yet," replied John, "but it will be some name commencing with S, probably either Psyche or Clinch."

GIVES HISTORIC FOUNTAIN AWAY

San Fernando Mission Bestows
Stone Antiquity to Mission
Play Association

L. A. Examiner: In appreciation of what has been done to preserve the early traditions of the California missions, and the effort to make known to the world the beautiful story of the Franciscan padres, who devoted their lives to the Christianization of the native inhabitants of this State, the historical stone fountain of the San Fernando Mission was yesterday presented to the Mission Play Association and will, in a few days, be removed to a spot close to the San Gabriel Mission.

The gift comes from Father Gerald I. Bergman and the members of the Catholic Church of San Fernando, where the fountain was removed some years ago, after religious services had been discontinued at the San Fernando Mission.

Fountain Made in 1797
The presentation was made with simple ceremony, Father Bergman acting in behalf of the members of the church. Those who were present to formally receive the gift, on behalf of the Mission Play Association, were John S. McGroarty, author of the Mission Play; Lucetta Del Valle, who will play the feminine role during the coming season at the San Gabriel Mission playhouse; Ben Horning, who takes the leading male part, and Senator Del Valle.

The old fountain was hewn out of solid stone and placed in front of the San Fernando Mission soon after its establishment in 1797. It occupies a place peculiarly unique among the relics of the California missions, inasmuch as this fountain and the one at the Santa Barbara Mission were the only fountains preserved from the twenty-one missions built in the State by the Franciscan fathers.

Many Destroyed by Vandals
A fountain was erected with the building of each of the missions. Following the days when the first "Gringos" came, all of the California missions, with the exception of the one at Santa Barbara, were abandoned.

Of the remaining twenty the fountain at the San Fernando Mission was the only one to escape the vandals.

Where the others went no one knows. The fountain, while showing evidences of the ravages of time, is yet in good condition, and was hewn out of solid rock on exceedingly artistic lines.

The fountain is to be taken and placed by the side of the unique theater where the Mission Play is presented, and will be erected by the miniature El Camino Real, in order that it may be viewed by all visitors at the San Gabriel Mission.

L. A. NORMAL SCHOOL CHEAPEST OF SUCH SCHOOLS IN STATE

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 16.—That it is cheaper for the state to put a student through the Los Angeles State Normal school than through any other is shown by a table comparing expenses of the various state schools published in the biennial report of State Controller A. B. Nye.

A graduate from the Los Angeles school has cost the state but $194.6. The other extreme is reached at the Chico State normal, where it costs $803.63 to graduate a student.

Figures for the other state normals are as follows: San Jose, $208.98; Santa Barbara, $200.67; Fresno, $339.60; San Francisco, $420.85; San Diego, $448.63.

JAILS MAY YAWN FOR WALL STREETERS

Demand for Drastic Remedies
Grows; Revelations Located
Business Cancer

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The many startling revelations of the methods of the New York Stock Exchange, already made by the House committee at Washington that is investigating the money trust, his given renewed impetus to the growing popular demand in this State for drastic legislation at Albany this winter that will effectively curb the flagrant evils.

The most striking suggestion thus far made to Chairman Pujio for a remedy is that the Stock Exchange be brought under the auction law of New York. It has been pointed out to him by a man seasoned in stock exchange gambling that the application of this old statute would bring the "pure gamblers," as they were described to the Pujio committee the other day by Frank K. Sturgis, face to face with the criminal law whenever they should indulge their bent for "wash sales" or "matched sales."

Business Cancer Located
Now that the financial doctors at Washington have located the seat of the country's business cancer in Wall street, it is obvious that one of the principal reforms the Democratic administration and Congress will undertake and push vigorously after they assume control of the Government in March, will be to eradicate, root and branch, this parasite that for so many years insidiously has been poisoning the country's business body. State legislatures have essayed the task in vain, just as surgeons have failed to cure cancer in the human being by using the knife wherever the disease manifests itself.

The thrush of money to Wall street from large and small banks in every nook and cranny of the country is caused, it has been shown, by the call loan system here; and this constitutes the basis upon which the admitted evils of stock speculation and manipulation are maintained. The annual report of the treasury issued Saturday shows that New York banks have been more prosperous this year than ever before, thus demonstrating in a new way that the people's savings are flowing into Wall street in increasing volume every year.

PRESIDENT ELECT WILSON RETURNS

Positively Refuses to Discuss
Appointments With Newspaper Men

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The steamship Bermudian bearing President-elect Wilson and his party, arrived at 3:30 this morning and docked at 8:15. A big crowd welcomed their arrival. Mr. Wilson was met at the dock by his daughter, Margaret, who remained in New York. The pier was elaborately policed and only those holding credentials were permitted to enter. The customs officials expedited the examination of the Wilson luggage, and the family were hurried to the Waldorf Astoria.

Mr. Wilson starts to Trenton tonight, returning tomorrow, to attend the Southern Society's dinner. He flatly refused to discuss politics, and was incensed when questioned as to Bryan's probable selection for a place in the cabinet. He said:

"If you want my attitude on this or other appointments and questions, I refer you to those newspapermen who have put the question to me for the last six weeks. I positively will not discuss these matters."

Took Turn at Wheel
STEAMSHIP BERMUDEAN, Dec. 16.—Heavy swells were encountered by the vessel bearing President-elect Wilson and his party back to the United States Saturday afternoon. The roughness of the sea was attributed to the heavy storms prevailing in the North Atlantic.

Mrs. Wilson and her daughters spent the afternoon reading in their seamer chairs on deck. Yesterday the weather was perfect, and Governor Wilson, who was up and about ship at an early hour, out in a busy day. He spent much of his time on the bridge, chatting with the ship's officers and studying the course in the pilot house.

took a trick at the wheel yesterday afternoon.

TWO YEAR OLD CHILD FELL THIRTEEN FEET: SHE WAS UNHURT

Cara Ramsey, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Ramsey of Bakersfield, fell from an upstairs window of the J. B. Ramsey home on West Seventeenth street this morning, miraculously escaping injury.

The little girl was standing before an open window upstairs when she saw her mother in the yard below and leaned against the screen to call to her. Her weight dislodged the screen and she fell with it to the cement sidewalk more than 13 feet below.

J. B. Ramsey ran to her when he saw her fall. He picked her up and was amazed to find her unhurt except for a slight nose bleed. The little girl held out her arms to him and said "Me failed. Want to see chickies, Grandpa."

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understand the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair are last following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty, and makes it grow.

HAD TWO APPENDICES
SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 16.—Two appendices were removed from R. A. Spangenberg of this city, who is now recovering at his home. The case is said to be unprecedented.

At the Hahnemann Hospital, Spangenberg was operated on for acute appendicitis. When the incision for the first appendix had been made and while the surgeons were about to remove it they discovered the second appendix, about three-quarters of an inch away.

CARTON OF EGGS

CARRIED BY MAIL

Oklahoma Delivered Eggs in Washington, D. C. by Way of Parcels Post

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Postmaster General Hitchcock has demonstrated to the express companies of the country that the parcels post system can be used by the farmers of the country in shipping eggs at a much lower figure than the present express rates on this commodity.

On Saturday Mr. Hitchcock received from a farmer of Oklahoma City, Okla., a distance of 2,500 miles from Washington, a carton of eggs which had been sent by mail in order to demonstrate the possibilities of the parcels post service.

The eggs, wrapped in cotton and paper and placed one in each of the divisions found in the ordinary egg carton, were merely marked "merchandise" and received the usual treatment accorded ordinary mail matter. Not one was broken and the postmaster general is highly elated at the result of the experiment.

rules promulgated by the department, shipments of eggs must be so marked in order that they may be carefully handled. The postmaster general believes that after the New Year the delivery of eggs through the mails from the farm to the city residences will be the rule rather than the exception.

DUCK HUNTERS' PARADISE
SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 16.—There is a duck hunters' paradise in the heart of the desert, according to Gustave Baurer, a mining man who arrived in the city yesterday morning.

Baurer lives at Silver Lake, a small town on the Tonopah & Tidewater Railroad, and so named because it is located on the edge of an immense lake bed which, part of the year, is filled with water. Baurer says that just now there are thousands of ducks on the lake and that the desert people are living on fresh fowl and that the high cost of living does not affect them in the least at this time.

KANSAS FARMERS IN MAJORITY IN KANSAS ASSEMBLY

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 16.—It now develops that the late Kansas Democratic landslide has swept a majority of farmers into the lower house of the legislature. The house membership is 125. Of this number sixty-three are farmers. Thus the tillers of the soil will control this branch of the lawmaking body by a majority.

The farmers have the best of it in the Senate, though they do not control. There are twelve farmers in the upper body. Lawyers come second, with a total of nine. There are four merchants, five bankers, two real estate dealers, one miner, one doctor, one veterinarian, one college instructor, one miller and one oil operator.

The house as listed in the Secretary of State's office shows the membership to be divided as follows: Sixty-three farmers, fifteen merchants, nine lawyers, eleven real estate dealers, seven bankers, three doctors, one miner, one hotel man, one blacksmith, one liveman, two contractors, one abstractor, one political lecturer and two auctioneers.

ARIZONA TO SHOW FRUITS
Many Displays Entered at Orange Show at San Bernardino.
SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 16.—With the third annual National Orange Show but sixty days away, there are more handsome feature displays booked than were dreamed of during the preparations for the show last year. Even Arizona is going to have a citrus display. Word was received from Yuma, where a particularly early crop is grown, that an effort will be made to have enough of the fruit to make an exhibit. A fine display is coming from the San Fernando Valley and the San Jacinto Chamber of Commerce is arranging to put on a splendid display.

AUSTRALIA PASSES BILL TO REGULATE TRUSTS AND COMBINES
MELBOURNE, Dec. 16.—A monopolies bill was passed through its final stage in the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Australia last Tuesday by a vote 41 against 26. The measure gives to the Government of the Commonwealth power to legislate in regard to trusts, combines and monopolies.

The Commonwealth Government recently found itself in the grip of the International Steel combination making a purchase of rails, and it also was concerned over the alleged intention of the American Bee Trust to get the trade of Australia into its hands.

BANDIT KILLS BOB SQUIRES

broken. Undoubtedly he rested his gun on a rock when he fired and shot Culver and Prater.

Capt. Uim proceeded carefully up the canyon. It was the plan that no man unless in uniform go up the canyon, for if not in uniform he would be fired upon by the posse.

When Uim arrived in the vicinity of the hidden bandit, the man sought to run toward him and hide in another little draw.

No one knows who fired the first shot. Through the brush the cornered man ran, seeking to get up another draw.

"Bang, bang, bang!"

From the upper ridge the fire began.

Men from the ridge on the west began to shoot. The bandit was seen to throw up his hands and disappear in the brush.

"Rush him," shouted the sheriff, as he started down the mountain. Fifty men were with him down the steep, brushy mountainside.

Uim's men were down the canyon but a short distance and a bullet from the fire on the far ridges sang close to them. Uim was not missed over ten feet by a bullet that flattened on a rock.

Down Upon Him
The rush upon the bandit brought scores of men to the place. The bandit was dead in the brush, a bullet wound through his head. It was found that he had food and ammunition with him. The only reason he did not kill more men was that he was wounded.

His rifle was a 25-35. He had three boxes of cartridges left.

The Sad Procession
It was a sad procession that picked up Undersheriff Robert Squires and carried him down the mountain. He was shot no less than three times, once through the head, once through the lungs and once through the stomach. The bullet through the head entered the upper lip and came out back of the head.

Description of Outlaw
The body of the dead outlaw, as it lay on the slab at the coroner's, showed a young man anywhere from 23 to 30 years of age, with a bullet wound in each forearm and one in the left temple, the latter the death wound. The partly-opened eyes showed a bluish-grey. The face was long and tending to sharpness, tapering from a well-shaped broad brow to a narrow chin. It is clean-shaven, stubble not more than two days old. The upper lip is long over slightly protruding teeth. The weight is about 160, height about 5 feet, 6 or 7 inches.

He wore a dark grey suit with stripes, dark slouch hat, heavy shoes with hobnails.

Who Is He?
That question will probably be answered soon, and yet it may never be answered. The only name that appears in his effects is Fred, Glenn, to whom he sent a money order, from Portland, Oregon, on Sept. 27—at least he had a receipt for such an order,—and the place to which it was sent is Clatskanie, Oregon. This is in Columbia county, of which St. Helena is the county seat. There are many other money order receipts issued at Portland for sums from $1.10 to $6.50, dates from Aug. 20 to Sept. 20, but no name of person to whom sent. There is one money order for $2.10 issued at Wood River, Oregon, date Aug. 20.

A fragment of an envelope contains the name Ira, evidently the first name of the party to whom it was addressed, and a printed return card reading H. L. Brown, sheriff of Lane county, Eugene, Oregon.

Other fragments or slips of paper contain memoranda "Take Rose City car to E. 11th St. Turn to left," "is on one and on another, the words, 'Sugar of lead.' Another contains a diagram of three sides of a square, a small square with one side open, and inside the lines the figures 12, Beneath and to the side are a series of eight or ten figures or numbers in two horizontal rows.

He had a large quantity of ammunition for rifle and revolver, including soft-nosed bullets for the rifle, with which, evidently, he killed Deputy Culver.

Prater was shot from the right side, the bullet entering the temple and coming out over the right eye. Prater dropped in his tracks. Sam Burke and others crouched down the mountainside in full view of the bandit, and dragged Prater to the top of the ridge. On the top of the hill under the shade of a scrub-oak, he was laid down to rest, and a wet handkerchief put over the wound from which his brains protruded.

"Take him down," said Sheriff Ruddock.

William Jeffrey took charge of the man, who was put on a piece of canvas, carried down through the rough ridge to the ploughed fields, and from there to Cheney's house.

Emergency Hospital
At Cheney's house was an emergency hospital. A bench was laid out. C. S. Kelly, druggist, had emergency medicines. Drs. Wehrly, Burlew, Ball and Gordon were present. Dr. Wehrly had started to the top of the hill, and was certain that he had been fired upon. The bullet struck about twenty feet from him. Seeing them bringing Prater down, he returned.

Culver's leg was cared for. He was taken away in an automobile, when from the west came a team bearing the wounded Prater.

One look at Prater convinced the physicians that his case was precarious.

"You have a chance," said Dr. Ball to Prater.

Prater was put into an automobile and in care of Jeffrey, Walter Cook and Harry Spencer, at whose house the dead bandit bought a meal last evening, took Prater to the Santa Ana Hospital, where it is considered he has a fighting chance for life, but no more than a fighting chance.

The Final
It was almost 12 o'clock when Prater reached Cheney's. Just then came the reports of volleys up the ridge. It was the finale of the bloody day.

In the bright sunshine of an ideal day, with scores of unarmed men hovering over the ridges out of sight of the canyon in the bottom of which the bandit was hidden.

There arrived at the foot of the canyon Capt. Uim of Company L, with Sergt. Eckman, Lieut. Tower and Private Davies in uniform. It was Uim's plan to march up the bottom of the canyon through the brush and drive the scoundrel into the open. The entire upper part of the canyon was covered with men just behind the rim, oftentimes they stood out, and that they were not fired upon and more killed is due to the fact that the bandit had his right arm

Sheriff Squires and wounded the others of the man-hunting posse.

Great Credit Due Co. L.

Several persons reported that great credit was due Co. L. not only for valor but strategy, and so the Register interviewed Captain Uim. He had little time or inclination to talk, but told the story of the final action in the tragedy briefly and simply.

"When we arrived," said Captain Uim, "the outlaw was in a sort of a canyon pocket. The entrance was very narrow, but the pocket widened out inside. The outlaw could not be seen, but he could evidently see the entire rim of the surrounding ridges and hills, and every time anybody showed above these rims he would hear or feel a bullet from the outlaw's rifle. I realized that it would be unsafe to try to starve out the desperado, because in the darkness of night he could almost surely escape. So I decided to go round to the mouth of the canyon with a picked squad of men and creep up on him or rush him as might seem best. As soon as we started up the canyon the men on the hills began to call to each other not to shoot or to be careful, as the soldiers were entering the canyon. At this the outlaw broke cover and was greeted with a volley of shots. When we reached him he was dead."

Thinks Iman Hit Him
District Attorney L. A. West and Deputy Koepsel were present at the finale. Koepsel thinks Deputy City Marshal Frank Iman of Anaheim killed the bandit.

"I saw Iman aim and fire and at his shot I saw the bandit throw up his hands," said Koepsel.

GLENN MARTIN JUST ESCAPES DEATH

But Four Minutes Between Oblivion in Sea and the Aviator and Garbutt

MEN SEEKING RESCUE OF KEARNEY NEARLY LOST

Overturned Hydro-aeroplane is Towed to Shore by "Imp" Through Heavy Sea

Los Angeles Times: The coast-wide search for Aviator Horace Kearney all but resulted in another double tragedy yesterday. Glenn Martin, aviator, and Frank Garbutt, millionaire sportsman of Los Angeles, in the former's air craft, narrowly escaped with their lives when forced to make a landing on a turbulent sea many miles from shore and about twenty miles south of Hueneme. With the waves running twelve and fifteen feet high, the trail machine proved a precarious ocean-going craft and but for the fortunate arrival of the launch "Imp," the fate of the daring searchers would have been the same as that which it now seems certain overtook Kearney and his passenger.

Lost in an impenetrable fog, the watch in the hand of Garbutt ticking off the minutes that proclaimed the rapid consumption of the fuel supply; face to face at last with the knowledge that the whirl of the propeller would cease when four minutes more marked the last of the gasoline in the tank; the position of the two men was desperate. Out of sight of land, with nothing beneath them but a broad expanse of angry waters; a combination of material elements that seemed determined to render these frail bits of humanity and their puny craft back into original chaos; the danger was imminent. As the crucial moment arrived and the men nerved themselves for the sudden descent into the maelstrom beneath, a glad shout from Garbutt announced the appearance of the "Imp."

Nothing daunted by the narrow margin of their escape from almost certain death, the two men managed to replenish the gasoline supply from the launch preparatory to resuming their now almost hopeless search for the lost bird man. Spark troubles, however, prevented the machine rising from the water, and finally a line was attached and the "Imp" started for San Pedro with the hydro-aeroplane in tow. Four times the heavy rope snapped because of the strain caused by the swells, but the men risked their lives repeatedly in the effort to save the machine.

The forty-mile trip to San Pedro occupied nine hours, although Martin and Garbutt had made the distance in less than fifty minutes. On the ocean side of the breakwater at San Pedro harbor the engines of the "Imp" went dead and the hydroplane, which had remained in an upright position during the long trip down the coast was capsized by the heavy sea running at that time. The "Imp," having in tow the overturned hydroplane, was now taken in tow by the fishing trawl Christopher Columbus and brought into the inner harbor. Martin and Garbutt, weary by their hardships and the strain resulting from their almost constant struggles with the elements for hours, availed themselves of the hospitality of the local lodge of Elks and within twenty minutes after landing at the wharf were fast asleep.

All Day Search
The determination of Martin and Garbutt to undertake the hazardous flight in search of Kearney and his passenger came after the futile efforts of searching parties along the coast. Martin took the air at Newport at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and arrived at San Pedro twenty-five minutes later. Garbutt, in his private yacht, Skidbladnir, which had been utilized in the search for the missing aviator, joined Martin in the outer harbor. Leaving instructions for the Skidbladnir to follow them up the coast and to use every possible means of assisting them in the search for Kearney, the owner of the yacht joined Martin in the air craft and with a whirling of the motor the machine rose in the air and pointed her nose northward. It was impossible to keep to their course unless they attained a great height, which was not considered advisable because this would have made it impossible for them to have prosecuted the search for Kearney. The heavy fog soon enveloped them and they lost all sense of direction.

"Both Are Dead"

Both Garbutt and Martin, after their rescue, were emphatic in the declaration that Kearney and Lawrence, his passenger, were at the bottom of the ocean.
"It is absolute folly to think of them living in such a sea as has been running for the past twenty-four hours," Martin said as he viewed the wreck of his hydro-aeroplane. "If they were forced to land on the ocean last night their fate was sealed." The aviator was warm in his praise of his companion, who, he said, showed remarkable nerve in the presence of what they knew to be almost certain death. "His voice never even trembled as he held his watch in his hand and tolled on the minutes, telling me just how much time we had before the fuel would be exhausted," Martin said.

The appearance of a launch several miles off San Pedro, having in tow what appeared to be an aeroplane, was announced yesterday by the lighthouse keeper on Point Firmin, late in the afternoon, and the news spread rapidly over San Pedro and surrounding points, where thousands were prosecuting a search for Kearney. People at once jumped to the conclusion that the hydroplane sighted off the point was the wreckage of Kearney's machine, comparatively few knowing of Martin's flight in search of his fellow-aviator. High points along the coast were crowded with eager watchers, many of them with powerful glasses and small craft of all kinds put off from the wharf at San Pedro to meet the incoming launch with its tow. It was after 7 o'clock, however, before the "Imp" was brought alongside the wharf and the people learned that another fatality had been narrowly averted.

Martin's loss will be approximately $5,000, his machine being almost totally destroyed. Garbutt, fearing that his family board the yacht would be concerned over their failure to locate the air craft, sent telegrams to all coast points informing them of his safety.

ANTHRACITE COAL 'TRUST' SUIT PARTIALLY WON BY GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The Supreme Court has declared that the charge that a general combination of Pennsylvania railroads, alleged by the government to form an anthracite coal trust, has not been established, but the court partially smashed the trust by holding that the so-called 65 per cent contracts are void as being "abnormal and illegal restraints upon interstate commerce."

The contracts in question were made by independent operators to buy that proportion of the trust's output. The decision is a partial government victory. It dissolves the Temple Iron Company, but refuses to order a dissolution of the Erie road and other alleged combinations of anthracite carriers. The decision was read by Justice Burton.

Five separate suits were charged by the government in the suit instituted in 1907. The Philadelphia & Reading; the Lehigh Valley; the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western; the Erie; the Central of New Jersey and New York, Susquehanna & Western road, with its subsidiary companies, including the Temple concern, were attacked with forty-three of the largest

IT WENT DOWN HER "SUNDAY" THROAT

Mrs. Charles Shaw of North Main street was seized with stricture of the throat last evening while eating supper and for several hours it was feared that she might not live. A small piece of meat that had lodged in the throat caused the trouble, cutting off her breath and nearly choking her. Drs. Robertson and Shaul worked over her for several hours before she was considered out of danger. The meat slipped down her wind pipe and entered the lung, where it is still lodged. The doctors say it will be dissolved in the lungs and will be coughed up in the form of phlegm.

"So long John," the women shouted. "We will visit you at Tarrytown."

HOUSEWIVES PLAN SWEEPING FIGHT

Head of Housewives' League of U.S. Numbering 500,000 Says Egg Prices Must Fall

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Unless the retail dealers lower the price of eggs and keep it down to a normal figure, the housewives of the five boroughs will, at the end of three days, go out in the streets with carts and wagons and unseal them.

This announcement was made yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Julian Heath, national president of the Housewives' League, which numbers 500,000 women in the United States and nearly 100,000 in this city alone.

If this plan fails to break the egg market and to continue it in that condition, the dealers will have to fight the parcels post, which goes into operation January 1, for, if cold-storage eggs are still selling above 26 or 27 cents at the end of this month, the Housewives' League will establish relations with the scores and scores of out-of-town dealers who have already made overtures to the Housewives' League through Mrs. Heath, and, acting as a sort of clearing house, will furnish consumers and dealers of an independent nature with each other's names so that they may do business with each other.

FREEHOLDERS CHARTER COMMITTEE POINTS OUT MAIN FEATURES

The Freeholders Charter Committee, being requested to submit a brief digest of a few of the advantages under the proposed new freeholders' charter, respectfully submit the following:

Under the proposed new charter the elective officers are only six in number, viz: A mayor, four commissioners and clerk. All other officers are appointed by the commissioners—the same method as is followed by every successful corporation in the country.

The stockholders of all well managed corporations elect a board of directors and leave to them the selection of treasurer, secretary, night watchman, attorney and other officers, and under the proposed charter the commissioners act as a board of directors and should be left free to appoint their officers, for whom they are responsible, to carry out the laws of the city. If the marshal, attorney, city engineer, street superintendent, sewer superintendent, etc., are not satisfactory, and are not performing their duties as they should, or the service can be benefited by a change, the commissioners have the power to immediately make that change.

At present the city treasurer receives one-half of one per cent for the handling of the city funds; under the proposed charter the commissioners appoint the treasurer and they doubtless could make arrangements with an official in some bank to pay the city something for the privilege of acting as treasurer, instead of paying them for the service.

Doubtless the commission could secure some capable attorney to attend to the legal matters for the city at a less expense than at present paid for legal services.

The proposed charter compels the commissioners to arrange to have the county officers make the assessment and collect the taxes, thus saving a large part of that expense per annum. The present board has that power, but the charter makes it mandatory. The charge of the county for doing such work this year could not, by law, have exceeded $397.50.

The commissioners have the power and right to post all public papers and documents instead of at present, printing them in some newspaper at large expense.

With the rapid growth of our city and the increasing duties falling upon the governing body, it is necessary in the future to pay for services.

Commissioners paid a fair salary for their services, could doubtless more than save the added expense by a larger attention to public affairs.

Santa Ana is no longer a country village in swaddling clothes, but has an annual expense account of nearly a quarter of a million of dollars. If we expect valuable services for this large business enterprise we must pay for them.

The same body of officers should manage all financial affairs so that those held responsible for raising the funds should also be held responsible for their disbursement.

Either men or women can hold any office.

The only limitation being that an elective officer, either man or woman, shall have been an elector of Santa Ana for three years before being elected to such office. This seems wise as a safeguard to prevent too young or inexperienced a person, or a newcomer, not yet familiar with our needs, aspiring to the important positions of mayor, commissioner or clerk.

At the time of the submission of the charter by the Freeholders Committee, it did not occur to us that this would prevent women from being elected at the first election, as they have only been electors for one year, yet this is of no practical consequence when we know that under the present conditions there will not be an opportunity for women to be elected to office in the city for two years yet, and by that time they will have been electors for three years and eligible to election as commissioners or clerk, under the charter.

All commissioners are elected at large by the voters of the entire city, thus making every commissioner responsible to and under obligation to act in the interest of the whole city and not a particular section thereof.

The mayor and two commissioners are elected every two years, so if their services are not satisfactory, new ones can be elected, or they can be reached by recall prior to that time.

The recall of an official, a measure introduced by the initiative or an action of the commissioners by the referendum can only be demanded by petition signed by fifteen per cent of the registered voters, wherein the State law is based on the number of votes cast at a previous election, and the number of votes cast varies from 33 per cent to 65 per cent of the registered vote.

In some instances the commissioners have more power and in others less than at present.

The commissioners have power to initiate some steps that mean the expenditure of money, but final action rests with the people who can stop them if they so desire, as official action must be taken by ordinance (see Sec. 41) which can be stopped by petition.

The commissioners whom we elect should be entrusted to expend $500 to advantage without expense and delay of advertising, otherwise we should elect some one who we can trust.

The different departments of the city will be under the direction of the different commissioners who are held personally responsible therefor.

The city is guaranteed many powers not now in its possession, for instance:

Regulating of dairies and truck gardens.

Regulating places of amusement.

Regulating weed and garbage cleaning.

Regulating billboards and signs.

Inspection of food products.

The establishment of a municipal newspaper if the time should ever come when the newspapers should combine and charge exorbitant rates for advertising and printing.

When it is seen that it costs over $1400 to publish this charter it will be seen that it is well to take this precaution against any decided increase in the future.

The commissioners may post ordinances and public documents which are now printed in some newspaper, which seldom if ever does any one read, thus saving a great amount of money in this respect.

Add Freeholders' hats

There will doubtless be some things in the charter which will not commend itself to all, such is to be expected, in this or any other charter, yet if on trial this should prove not satisfactory amendments can at small expense be effected by having the vote taken on any amendments at the same time other elections are being held.

The expense connected with the proposed charter by the time the election is over, December 28, 1912, will be in excess of $4000 while amendments to the charter in a number of sections can be made at comparatively small expense.

BOGUS CHECKS ARE STILL COMING BACK

Olinda Derrick: Several more bogus checks, the result of the whole sale forgery at Brea last Saturday turned up at the La Habra Bank this week. These were checks that had been worked off on Los Angeles people and of course were turned down by the local bank. Nothing as yet has been heard of either Callan or Latham and the chances are that they will make themselves scarce around this field for some time to come.

Will Save Trouble by Observing These Rules

Postmaster Shaw desires this paper to call attention of Christmas shoppers to a few important precautions which should always be used in mailing packages:

Be sure your packages are securely wrapped, as they are almost certain to have rough handling somewhere along the route during the Christmas rush. If sending dress goods or other soft or yielding material, use a strong pasteboard box, as articles of this description invariably present a sorry appearance when delivered if only wrapped with paper.

Have your packages weighed before mailing, in order to be sure of the required postage, a short-paid merchandise must be held up until the proper postage is furnished. If the return address of the sender is not supplied, then the addressee must be notified and the time thus required eventually gets the present to the desired person long after Christmas.

Write the address plainly in the proper place and put your return address in the upper left-hand corner, in smaller letters. It often happens that the return address is made more conspicuous than the address, in which case it is not unusual to have a package returned to the office where it was mailed just as it has been fairly started on its journey. The stamps should be placed in the upper left-hand corner, and not all over the parcel or letter. Use stamps of as large denomination as possible, as the fewer the stamps the less work required to cancel them. In other words, do what you can to assist the postal clerks, who at this season are overworked and worried to serve you.

If your package is going to some foreign country, so inform the clerk who waits on you, as it may require different treatment than you think.

Place your stamps on letters and postals in the upper right-hand corner, as they are cancelled in a machine which will not reach them in a lower corner.

And, lastly, don't get cross if you can help it, for everybody is going to do the best he or she can.

Holiday Trips To Yucaipa

During the Holiday season we will continue our trips to the Yucaipa valley. You may have your choice of either going on the railroad or in our automobile. Either way the trip is made in one day, and the expense is the same, either mode of travel. And a fine trip it is. Up the Santa Ana river, through Corona, to Riverside by way of Magnolia avenue, to Colton, San Bernardino, Highlands and to famous Redlands. Then by auto into the Yucaipa valley and over our eleven thousand acre tract, where in two and a half years, twenty-five hundred acres have been set to trees, under the most up-to-date irrigating system to be found in Southern California. The "South Bench," the very cream of the valley is now being rapidly sold out, 40,000 trees will be set out in this sub-division before next spring.

Orchards may be planted and cared for by experts at less cost than you can do it yourself unless you live on be all sold out—likely within the next 90 days, and then you will regret that you did not act promptly.

Plenty more just as good! Not by a jugful. We have more land, but not up on this high bench where the altitude is 3000 feet and the climate perfectly suited to the growing of all kinds of fruits, especially Big Red Apples. No late frosts, no destructive winds, no intense heat, no stones, brush, cactus or hummocks, but soil like a garden. Oh, but you are going up to see it for yourself. Get interested at once. Come to our office and arrange to go.

THEY MEANT WELL.

The Trouble Was, Though, They Jumped to a Wrong Conclusion.

It is always a mistake to jump to conclusions, and here is an instance in point: One day last summer a wealthy American who lives in Paris was playing baccarat at the casino at Engleien. The gentleman in question has a simple system of his own. He loses only a fixed sum and when this is gone stakes no more.

On this occasion he had reached his limit losses and, turning to a woman who was sitting next him, remarked: "There goes my last louis. I shall not play any more." At the same time he took a little tortoise shell box from his pocket, opened it and slipped a small white lozenge into his mouth. Next thing he knew was that he was in the hands of four stalwart attendants, who caught him from behind, swung him out of his chair and carried him out of the casino into a small room adjoining. Refusing to listen to his angry protests, they hastily laid him on a sofa, forced his jaws open and poured a strong emetic down his throat.

The consequences were so immediate and disastrous that the poor man was beyond speech. By that time it was too late for his explanation that the lozenge was merely a sulphate of quinine and that the casino authorities were idiots for jumping to the conclusion that he had lost his last penny and taken poison.

Caught Them Both Ways.

A prisoner on his trial, in answer to the charge, pleaded "Not guilty." The jury found the charge proved, and in passing the sentence the judge said, "You're not only guilty, but you comes here and tell lies, saying you're not." The prisoner who followed next for trial was doubtless influenced by this and supposed it would be well for him to take another course, so he pleaded "Guilty" in quite a self-satisfied voice. "Oh, you're guilty, are you," said the judge, "and come here to brag about it, do you?"

How Could it Be a Mistake?

What a woman doesn't know about newspapers isn't worth knowing. The other morning Mrs. B. was talking to her husband.

"I notice in the Daily Hoodoo that Mr. Biffkins died on Sunday."

"It's a mistake, my dear," replied the husband. "He died on Monday."

"But the paper said Sunday."

"I know it, but it was an error in the print."

"I thought so, too, at first, but I got a half dozen copies of the paper, and it was the same in all of them. They certainly couldn't have made the mistake over and over again."

The husband tried to convince her, but it was no use, and he gave it up.

Huxley and Lewes.

Here is an anecdote once related by Herbert Spencer—who, by the way, was rather heavy in hand when he undertook to play story teller. Apropos of Huxley's humor he described a dinner of distinguished authors:

Over their cigarettes they fell to discussing their various methods of commencing to write. One said he wrote and wrote, tore up, then wrote again, and so on.

George Lewes, who was present, looked surprised, and then cried out:

"Oh, I'm not like that! I commence to write at once, directly the pen is in my hand. In fact, I boil at a low temperature."

"Indeed," cut in Mr. Huxley, "that is very interesting, for, as you know, to boil at a low temperature implies a vacuum in the upper region."

Lewes himself was the first to lead the shout of laughter which greeted this clever repartee.

Verbal Chiropraxy.

The pastor, who was calling upon a member of his congregation, asked the name of the sprightly little daughter whose winning ways had attracted his attention.

"We call her Elia," said the little girl's mother.

"That is a good name, Mrs. Donley," remarked the minister. "It has been made classic by Charles Lamb."

"Well, to tell the truth," explained Mrs. Donley, "her name is Cornelia, but it's easier to call her Elia."

"I see," he rejoined. "And she probably likes it better. It is a painless extraction of a Corn."

In design, in careful manufacture, in quality of steel—nothing better can be built. See these new Studebaker cars Wednesday, Dec. 18th at Wm. F. Lutz Co.

THE GILA MONSTER.

Repulsive in Look, It is Really a Harmless Creature.

Probably there is no other living creature more feared by the ignorant than the Gila monster, about which all manner of weird tales have been told. It has even been held that the mere breath of this animal is sufficient to cause death to the one upon whom it fell. Scientific inquiry, however, fails to disclose a single instance wherein the breath or even the bite of this creature has resulted fatally. The fact that dissection and microscopic examination do not reveal any trace of glands for the secretion of venom is sufficient evidence to indicate that this curious member of the lizard family has been slandered.

Some years ago a civil engineer in the southwest undertook to settle once for all the question whether "the monster" was deadly or not. A fine specimen was captured and confined in a wire inclosure. A chicken was obtained, and its feathers were removed in order that the lizard might have every opportunity to strike at the breast. The chicken was then held quite close to the Gila monster, which soon snapped viciously and secured a firm hold on the fowl's breast, retaining this grip for more than ten minutes. When the victim was released it was found that the chicken's breastbone had been broken. Nevertheless the fowl quickly recovered, the bone knitting and the wound healing with no symptoms of poisoning.

It is very probable that the reputation for evil borne by the Gila monster is due simply and solely to its most repulsive appearance.—Harper's Weekly.

THE UBIQUITOUS SEA LION.

He Strayed a Long Way From Home Before He Was Killed.

The following story is taken from the American Magazine:

"Sunday is a dull day, and the city editors had a habit of detaching men to go to the zoological gardens and get animal stories for Monday morning. The reporters got together one Sunday morning and persuaded the head animal keeper to let them publish a fake story. It was rather commonplace, concerning the alleged escape of a non-existent sea lion from the pool to open water."

"Fake," said the managing editor as he read the story. "Let's make it a good one."

"Thereupon he sent telegrams to every country correspondent on that water or its tributaries, merely inquiring if anything had been seen of the escaped sea lion. The response was appalling. The correspondents needed only the hint. That day the sea lion was seen by at least twenty correspondents, and Bernhard printed all the reports one after another. Thus spurred, the correspondents went to it in earnest. The following day the sea lion was reported at every point within 200 miles. The story spread like ripples on water. In five days the lion was sighted over half the world, and an enthusiast at Southampton cabled that he was heading toward the north sea. Then a cruel correspondent up on Lake Superior killed him and wired that he was sending the skin as proof. I always suspected that the managing editor did it himself."

A Fine Sense of Feeling.

One of two dummies who run a boot-black "parlor" in partnership was bragging of his well developed sense of touch, particularly in the matter of money. He boasted that he could tell the denomination of any United States coin merely by feeling it. His partner wearied of these boasts and came back with this:

"Your sense o' feelin' ain't nothin' to my friend Marcus. Him and me used to work on the Pullman down through Kansas. Marcus had been on this route for about ten years. One night when we was both a-sleepin', long around midnight, I wakes up and I shakes Marcus and I says, 'Marcus, where are we?' And Marcus jest rolls over and sticks his hand out the window and he says, 'We're goin' through Oswego.'—Everybody's."

Writing on a Pillow.

Every one who has had occasion to write while riding in a railway train will be interested in the fact that the disagreeable effects of the jarring of the carriage are greatly mitigated by writing on a pillow. The pillow may be either held on the lap or placed on a table. The pad of paper and the arm which guides the pen or pencil should both rest on the pillow.

In this manner it will be found possible to write legibly and with comfort in a train flying at full speed.—London Answers.

Poor Mamma.

The Dear Child—Oh, Mrs. Bloom, when did you get back? Mrs. Bloom—Bless you, dear, I was not away anywhere. What made you think so? The Dear Child—I thought you were. I heard my mamma say that you were at loggerheads with your husband for over a week.

GOOD BANKING SERVICE

Does not consist merely in the receiving of deposits and the paying of checks, BUT IN THE ACCOMMODATION AND ATTENTION ACCORDED DEPOSITORS INDIVIDUALLY.

In other words, the ability of the bank to extend to you, regardless of your balance, a personal individual service in connection with your account, and the willingness of its officers to cheerfully help and advise in any business that you may wish to consult them about. THAT IS GOOD BANKING SERVICE.

The fact that the FIRST NATIONAL BANK has been doing a constantly growing business in Santa Ana for more than a quarter of a century speaks eloquently both in regard to the character of its service and the conservatism of its management.

FOR SALE

The Tract known as Flower Street Acres.

Fronting on South Flower St. Directly west of the Poly Tec. High School grounds.

I have had this tract Surveyed and Platted several times during the past 2 or 3 years for the purpose of subdivision and under every kind of a pretext, or without pretext, the City Trustees have Turned me down five times.

Now I would not accuse the majority of the City Trustees of "doing politics" or of refusing me a square deal, but when they defer to, and accept the conclusions of a committee consisting of two trustees, reinforced by the City Engineer, and decide against every reasonable proposal I make, I run up against a combination that is too big for me (as I weigh something less than 113 pounds with my boots on).

Therefore, I offer the above named ranch for sale (less one acre already sold) on easy terms.

For any one who has a "pull" with our city government this is the best thing in the city for subdivision.

LOS ANGELES PRODUCE MARKET

Local ranch eggs declined 2 cents yesterday, in response to an easier feeling in San Francisco, and comparatively large receipts lately. The egg market as a whole is rather weak, as the storage supply, especially Petaluma-Santa Rosa stock, is large. Further declines may occur within the next few days, and the easier condition may last longer than has been supposed. It is believed, however, that severe weather will result in a show of strength, but probably not for some time. Case count eggs were quoted at 34, candled at 38, and pullet at 23. Receipts were 109 cases.

The butter market was quite steady, after the decline of one cent which occurred Thursday. Dealers believe that a further falling off is not warranted by conditions at present. Although the San Francisco price is 1 1/2 cents below the market here, the rates in the East are still very high. Chicago butter was quoted yesterday at 35, and New York at 37. Very little eastern butter has been coming on the local market lately. Only one car has been reported in during the last week or so. It is understood that there is quite a good supply of storage on hand. Receipts were 13,350 pounds.

The cheese market was rather weak, due largely to the easy feeling in San Francisco, where the quoted price is 16 cents. Some northern cheese was offered on the local market at 17 1/2 cents, and storage at 16. There were also some offerings of fresh cheese for local delivery at 17 cents. Eastern cheese is very high, but the storage supply in this city is considered very good. Receipts were 780 pounds.

There has been a somewhat firmer feeling in the onion market, but this condition is only relative, for there is still a generally weak condition. Receipts were 640 sacks. Potato receipts were 2730, but there were no changes of any moment in the condition which has prevailed lately. Weakness is the leading characteristic of the market on this vegetable. Sweet potato receipts were twenty sacks. There were no changes of importance. Some Lady Washington beans were offered at 14 cents a pound in some instances.

GREEN BRIDGE GONE TO RUIN

Concrete Not Set When the Forms Were Moved; Runaway Accidents

FULLERTON, Dec. 14.—The new reinforced concrete bridge being built on East Chapman avenue for the city collapsed yesterday when the contractor removed the forms. The reason assigned is that the concrete was "too green." The loss will be borne by the contractor. The concrete bridge on North Spadra has been completed and will be tested before being accepted by the city.

On the twelfth day in the twelfth month was chronicled a series of runaways here in the most serious of which Ernest Bloodgood of Yorba Linda was thrown against the curbing of the public library, and sustained injuries to his skull. He is in the hospital and his condition is critical. M. G. Delaney of Placentia was thrown out of a rig and badly bruised. He was also taken to the hospital. While enjoying a horseback ride, Miss Helena Ingraham, teacher of art in the high school, was thrown and severely hurt. To complete the series, a laundry horse bolted and the driver was tossed against a curb in the business section and was unconscious for several minutes.

PROPOSE OPENING OF A NEW STREET

Newport News: Only three members of the Board of Trustees, Herms, Collins and Parkinson, were present Monday afternoon at the adjourned meeting of that body.

Trustee Parkinson of the street committee gave a lengthy report on the proposed opening of a new street paralleling the P. E. right-of-way from Twenty-sixth to Thirtieth street and said that after going over the ground he did not believe that the advantage which would accrue from opening the street would be equal to the cost of condemning the strip of land which would be required. He said that he believed an easement could be secured from the Pacific Electric trolley company for a road which would be the best and cheapest way out of the difficulty. Trustees Herms and Collins concurred with Mr. Parkinson in his views and an effort is being made to secure the easement from the railroad company.

A letter was read from Sam Tustin stating that the wind had washed out a section of bulkhead in front of one of his lots in block A at East Newport and asked the city to repair it. The street superintendent said he did

HAS FINISHED AT CHICAGO

McDannald Has Completed
Lecture Course in East on Orange County

Chicago Ills., Dec. 10, 1912. This day at 9 a. m. I parted company with my fellow conspirator comrades in the booster game, they to return to the land beyond the snow belt, by way of the S. P.'s most direct route, while I am booked by way of New Orleans, at which place I will stop off for a day and acquaint myself with some of the city's antiquities. I expect to stand on the remnants where General "Hickory" Jackson made the world famous challenge to the English invader, Pack-enham, and if I can get hold of one of the bullet punctured cotton bags, I'll lug it home with me.

The parting with my friends was one of the sad events marking a well remembered mile post along life's fittest journey. Salt laden pellets came unsummoned and freely flowed down the bronzed contour of my handsome visage.

It's awfully sad to be left alone in a big overgrown settlement like Chicago, and my usual calm and meditative moods were broken up like the fountains of the great deep and I allowed the tears to flow without restraint.

I boarded and "L" car at Madison and Dearborn with the avowed intention of seeing some of this strange city. I am at a loss to know why they call it the "L" road. It's not quite so crooked as a cork screw and yet it is not so straight as the letter "S."

I presume there was some method in their madness, for at every turn one gets a different view of the city. I went out through Fullerton, Edgewood, Lakeview and Evanston. The car makes a brief stop at "Calvary" but there were no incoming passengers. This has been the end of a long run with many and some came before the journey was scarce begun. Calvary cemetery is well kept, and judging from the multitudes of marble shafts rearing their weird white shapes toward the empyrean blue, it is extensively patronized. Chicago is a great big city. Some say it is 100 miles long. There is a trolley line running to Milwaukee, 82 miles from Madison street, and it's about 20 miles to the city limits the other way. Evanston is the "Pasadena" of Chicago, and with all its boast of wealth, and city environment, it does not compare in beauty with the "Crown City."

Everything here suggests "commercialism." Over there I see a tall smoke stack rearing its soot-begrimed columns skyward, while on the adjoining lot stands the palatial mansion of a "steel king," and a board of trade magnate.

I walked out to the edge of Lake Michigan, took a long and thoughtful look at its turbulent, wind-swept surface, and tried to picture the tears that have been shed over the thousands of hapless mortals whose lives have been sacrificed to its treachery. Contrary to my early teaching, Lake Michigan is not the "crystal blue" I had been led to expect, but on the contrary it's a very dirty body of water. Looks very much like the bath tub, after my annual plunge. My intentions before coming here were to see considerable of the city, to explore its four walls, and all within them of especial interest. I had intended to climb to the summit of some of her "skyscrapers" and scan the beauties which lie beyond. But alas, for human weakness. It is so much easier to plan, than to execute. "Air" castles are so much cheaper to build than real ones. My time has been so much engrossed with the work in the Land Show that all my good resolutions have faded like the proverbial "morning dew."

Out near Evanston I stopped in front of Chicago's numerous "Kindergarten" and watched a band of America's "Arabs" at play. I noticed they all wore winter-warm garments—caps and mittens and neck protectors of all descriptions. There is a certain languid feeling creeps over one, even though the cold biting winds from the lake plow surried furrows across his face and leave an imprint like the wavelets from a pebble dropped into a placid pool, and the sight of these little ones, huddling in the lee of anything that offered protection for their frail little bodies from the cold winds quite naturally make my thoughts stray to Southern California where the "biting" winds have been bereft of their teeth and are absolutely harmless. That most natural bane of the human family "selfishness" creeps on apace, and I am thankful to have a home in California, and that I will soon be "homeward bound."

The "United States Land Show" has gone into history and the chief reward received by your humble servant, was the many acts of courtesy and kindness from the management, and the hearty applause in the lecture room. If I accomplished any good for our beautiful little county the results must show up later. Eight thousand pieces of our literature were carried away by willing hands, and how much of the seed fell on sterile soil, and how much on "alluvial," time will tell.

D. W. McDANNALD.

THE TELEPHONE AT CHRISTMAS

THERE is no need for you to be worn out by holiday preparations if you make good use of your telephone.

The Bell telephone companies have found that just before Christmas the number of daily connections is the highest for the year. The telephone has become a necessity of the holiday season, because without it most people would not have time to do what they have planned.

Christmas cheer extends beyond the city limits, and the universal Bell System helps to carry it throughout the land.

Drives Off a Terror

The chief executioner of death in the winter and spring months is pneumonia. Its advance agents are colds and grip. In any attack by one of these maladies no time should be lost in taking the best medicine obtainable to drive it off. Countless thousands have found this to be Dr. King's New Discovery. "My husband believes it has kept him from having pneumonia three or four times," writes Mrs. George W. Place, Rawsonville, Vt. "and for coughs, colds and croup we have never found its equal." Guaranteed for all bronchial affections. Price 50c and $1.00. (Small bottles 25c.)

Shrinking Cotton.

As cotton materials shrink they must either be shrunk in the piece or made a size larger and luck trusted that the garment may not shrink beyond all wearing.
